The Honourable Chief Justice Diana Bryant AO, Family Court of Australia

Chief Justice Bryant graduated with a Bachelor of Laws from Melbourne University in 1969 and has a Master of Laws from Monash University. Before her appointment to the Bench she practised as a family lawyer with a national firm in Perth and spent ten years at the Victorian Bar, becoming a Queen’s Counsel in 1997.

Chief Justice Bryant is widely recognised for the role she played in establishing the Federal Magistrates Court (now the Federal Circuit Court), having guided the emergence and growth of the Court as inaugural Chief Federal Magistrate from 2000-2004. When appointed Chief Justice of the Family Court in 2004, she became the second woman in Australia’s history to head a federal court.

Important initiatives established during her tenure as Chief Justice are anonymisation and publication of all judgments of the Court on the web, introducing a less adversarial trial in the Family Court in children’s cases and the Court’s involvement with the Indonesian Religious Courts.

Chief Justice Bryant has served on many boards and advisory groups during her career and has had a longstanding commitment to the advancement of women in the law. She is currently the Patron of Australian Women Lawyers, and a Board member of the Association of Family and Conciliation Courts. She received a Centenary Medal in 2001 for her role in the establishment of the Federal Magistrates Court.
