

CDU's Treaty Education Program

with First Nations Diplomacy and Law School

Gain a deeper understanding of treaties in the Northern Territory through our comprehensive program.

CDU's First Nations Diplomacy team and Law School have come together to deliver an exciting new program which aims to increase understanding of Treaties in the Northern Territory. These Treaty Making modules are designed for anyone who's keen to learn:

1. Lawful Relations with Indigenous Peoples - the concept and history of lawful relations between First Nations Peoples and non-Indigenous people; and
2. Indigenous and Other Sovereignities - the concept and history of sovereignty as people-place in relations between First Nations Peoples and non-Indigenous people;
3. Understanding Treaty - the role that treaties have played in Canada and New Zealand, and might play in relations between First Nations Peoples-places and non-Indigenous people in Australia; and
4. Recognition, Reconciliation, Refusal - the interlinked concepts and practices of First Nations recognition, reconciliation and refusal (3Rs).

Completion of each module awards participants a Digital Badge, which demonstrates their completion of the module. We recommend the four modules to be undertaken in the order from 1 to 4. However, please select in the order to suit your preference.

Each module runs for 2-weeks and entails:

- > 12 hours of self-study (online learning materials, padlet activities and non-assessable quizzes)
- > 1 hour weekly webinar at the end of each week. These webinars will be run by First Nations scholar(s) from the Northern Territory.

Registration is open to everyone, including current CDU students and general members of the public.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND:

- > Students
- > Legal Professionals
- > Community Leaders
- > Public Servants
- > Educators
- > Business Professionals
- > NGO Staff
- > General Public

WHY ATTEND:

- > Gain in-depth knowledge and insights
- > Enhance career prospects in Indigenous affairs
- > Foster cultural competency and respectful engagement
- > Contribute to reconciliation and community building
- > Personal growth as a more informed and empathetic citizen

COST:

$300 per badge/module or $900 for all four badges/ modules.

REGISTRATION

Via registration links or an invoice please contact FAS Innovation team on 08 8946 6856 or fasinnovations@cdu.edu.au

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

By completing one of the courses, 5 Continuing Professional Development (CPD) points, required to maintain your legal practicing certificate, may be claimable.

UPCOMING MODULES

- > Lawful Relations with Indigenous Peoples
22 July - 2 August, 2024 registration link
- > Indigenous and Other Sovereignties
12-23 August, 2024 registration link
- > Understanding Treaty
2-13 September, 2024 registration link
- > Recognition, Reconciliation, Refusal
23 September - 4 October, 2024 registration link

PACKAGE OPTION

Registration for all four badges 22 July - 4 October 2024
registration link

If you require further information regarding the registration and payment process please contact:

Faculty of Arts and Society

Innovation team

08 8946 8864 or fasinnovations@cdu.edu.au